'a curious case of the purse'

Rubecksen yamanaka are presenting the new collection for spring/summer 2009 during London Fashion Week in installation collaboration with stylist Felix Elisabetta Forma.

The collection is inspired by Victorian photographer William Constable and the Victorian vintage purse. The collection features swiss dot cotton blouse and dresses with purse details and black and white gingham check coats and jackets. Tac stitch knitwear has interesting purse /pocket details and stripe knitwear has stockings inserted in the back. The details on the clothes are quirky and offbeat, creating a collection of beautifully peculiar pieces.

Yarns include milk fibre mixes, soft cotton and fabrics used are cotton swiss dot and polyester gingham check, silk satin, as well as black tulle. The colours are ranging from cream, beige to tonal greys and black.

This season rubecksen yamanaka are showing during London Fashion Week in the beautiful Livingstone Studio in Hampstead, Tuesday 16 September 2008, soiree 6.00 – 9.00 pm.

Venue: Livingstone studio, 36 new end square, London NW3 1LS
